

The New York Times

NEW YORK, FRIDAY, OCTOBER 29, 2010

★ JOYCE KOZLOFF: 'NAVIGATIONAL TRIANGLES'; closes on Saturday. In highly detailed, labor-intensive paintings and collages, this artist embarks on a grand tour of China and the Middle East via astronomical charts, military maps, space views from Google and personal photographs of New York City's ethnic neighborhoods. The work that results looks ahead to a potentially dark future of global strife, but also captures the exhilarating tumult of the contemporary Silk Road, which is sending Asian pop culture streaming toward the West. D. C. Moore Gallery, 724 Fifth Avenue, at 57th Street, (212) 247-2111, dcmooregallery.com. (Cotter)
