

THE NEW YORKER

FEBRUARY 22, 2016

Carrie Moyer's unabashedly beautiful paintings have hidden depths: they're swarming with art-historical and feminist references, such as nods to Helen Frantenthaler and Georgia O'Keeffe. Her new works (including "Intergalactic Emoji Factory," above) are at the DC Moore gallery starting Feb. 18.